It was a rainy day and Rose could hardly see a thing. Rose was so disappointed because today was Saturday and she was going to play with Star outside. Star was Rose's pet dog. Star just sat there as if to say, "Ready to go outside?" Rose sat there thinking of something to do.
All of a sudden the doorbell rang. Star ran to the door and barked and barked.

Rose said, “Hush Star.”
Rose opened the door. It was Rose’s best friend Annie.

“Oh! Hi Annie. How are you?”
Annie said, “I am fine. I was hoping that we could go for a walk with Star and Rufus because the sun came out.”
So the two girls went for a walk. On the way back to Rose’s house they heard a cracking noise.

“It’s a skunk!” cried Annie.

Star and Rufus started barking and the skunk got scared and sprayed all of them. The dogs stopped barking and instead were whining. The girls were saying, “Pee You!”
When Rose got home her mom said, "Pee You! What is that smell?"
"A skunk sprayed us," cried the girls.
"Well you are going to have to take a tomato bath," said Rose's mom.
"You are kidding, right?" said the amazed girls.
"No, I am not!" said Rose's mom.

So the two girls took a tomato bath.
The next day was the dog show sign up. Rose and Star signed up for it. Rose was so excited because the prize for the dog show was 5 tickets to Florida and there would be one extra for Annie. It would be a perfect surprise for Annie.
The next day at 2:00 was the show, but there was just one problem. Star was still stinky.

So they tried perfume...
That did not work.

Then they tried pickle juice. That did not work either.

Then they tried tomato juice and that worked perfectly. So Rose and her mom and dad scrubbed and scrubbed and scrubbed.
The next day Rose got her best clothes on for the dog show and got into the car. When they got inside it was Rose’s turn to go up to the platform. They started to do their tricks.

All of a sudden Rose heard someone say, “Wow! She should be the winner!”

But another person said, “No! That girl should be the winner.”

After an hour the judges finally decided that the winner would be Rose Johnson.

Rose was so happy. Her parents were so proud of her and they all got to go to Florida...
Including Annie and Rufus.....